

U.S. AIR FORCE

PROGRAM OVERVIEW SEEDING THE FUTURE

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

SBIR

- Applicant is for-profit business based in the United States
- 500 or fewer employees
- Principal investigator's primary employment must be with small business
- Additional requirements apply

STTR

- Applicant is for-profit business based in the United States
- Partner with U.S. research institution
- Formal cooperative research and development effort
- At least 40% of work performed by small business while 30% of work performed by research institution
- Additional requirements apply

PROPOSAL SUBMISSIONS

A SBIR or STTR Phase I or Phase II proposal for any DoD component must be submitted through the online DoD submission website at:
www.sbir.defensebusiness.org

Air Force experts evaluate the proposals on the following criteria, which are listed in order of importance:

- Soundness, technical merit, and innovation of the proposed approach and its incremental progress toward topic or subtopic solution;
- Qualifications of the principal/key investigators, supporting staff, and consultants. Qualifications include not only the ability to perform the research and development, but also the ability to commercialize the results;
- The potential for commercialization (government or private sector), application, and the benefits expected to accrue from this commercialization; and
- Price.

Note: Technical reviewers will base their conclusions only on information contained in the proposal. It cannot be assumed that reviewers are acquainted with the firm, key individuals, or any referenced experiments. Relevant supporting data such as journal articles, literature, including government publications, etc., should be contained, or referenced, in the proposal and will count toward the page limit.

CONTRACT AWARDS

- Phase I selections typically made within 90 days of Broad Agency Announcement closing
- Contracts typically awarded within 180 days (similar timing for Phase II)
- Principle investigator/corporate official notified of non-selected proposal
- Proposer may request a debriefing

BEYOND PHASE II

Phase III funding may be for products, services, research/R&D or any combination thereof, including testing and evaluation of products, services or technologies for use in technical or weapon systems.

The Air Force provides valuable assistance in transitioning technology to the military and commercial sectors. Commercialization Readiness Program technical analysts are assigned to each Program Executive Office and Air Force Research Laboratory technology directorate to establish and facilitate connections between the customer (Air Force, major defense contractors, etc.), customer's need, and the developing technology.

PROGRAM GOALS

The goals of the SBIR/STTR program are:

- Stimulate technological innovation
- Meet federal R&D needs (SBIR only)
- Foster and encourage participation in innovation and entrepreneurship by socially and economically disadvantaged persons
- Increase private-sector commercialization of innovations derived from federal R&D funding

THE AIR FORCE

Is an investor and a customer

- Focused on the warfighter
